

Locatediscount FAQ

Is it free for customers? Yes, always. Browsing, getting a code, and redeeming a deal cost you nothing.

Do I need to create an account? No. No sign-up, no password. We only ask for your name and phone number at the point of getting a code to identify you, save your code on the system as a backup, and to prevent abuse of the redemption system.

What happens after I get a code? Show it at the business before it expires. Staff validates it on the spot; once used, it can't be reused.

Is it free for businesses to list? Yes. You only pay a small fee when a code is actually redeemed in your store, never for listing or for views.

What if my wallet balance runs out? You'll be notified before it happens. If it does run out, a short grace buffer keeps redemptions working while you top up, so your customer is never turned away mid-transaction.

Is my data safe? We collect only what's needed to run the platform: your location, preferences, name, and phone number if you get a code. Full details are in our Privacy Policy.
